Washington, Dec. 1.—The second session of the Fifty-first congress will begin at noon to-day. At precisely 12 o'clock Vice Precident Morton in the senate, and Speaker Read in the house of representatives, will call those two bodies to order. The roll will be called and three new members will be sworn in—Whitelaw, in place of Walker, of Missouri: Hayes, the successor of Conger, of Iowa, and Pindar, who has been the first session, and which was resisted in the senate by the Democrats so firmly that it was necessary for the Republicans to agree to a postponeum of its consideration in order to bring about the passage of the tariff bill and an adjournment of the first session.

There is also on the calendar of the senate the National lankruptcy bill which is being pushed by the representatives of the commercial convention; the bill to transfer the revenue marine service from the treasuny to the navy department which was debated at some leight during the first session, the bill to discontinue the coinage of the $1 and $3 gold pieces, and the Conger lard bill. These measures have passed the house, of the house calendar are the subsidy and the shipping bills which have passed the senate. A number of other measures of great importance are on the calendars of both houses, which have passed the senate. A number of other measures of great importance are on the calendars of both houses, which have passed the work for the session in both houses. The Republicans in the senate are pledged to the passage of the Federal election bill: but it it is question in the minds of some whether if it possible to pass it against the obstructive factics of the Democrats and then the question is raised whether there is any party ne principally devoted to the receipt of the president's message, which will be read at length in each house. It is not unlikely that on the following day the house committee on appropriations will be ready to report one or more of the annual appropriation bills. The pension bill and the fortification bills will be the first to come up for consideration. What will be done to push the appropriation bills forward will be determined in cancus. The Republican cancus has also to determine upon a postmaster for the house, the office having been declared vacant at the close of the first session.

PROPOSED APPORTIONMENT The Plan Most Favored by the Repub-

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.-The Repub lican members of the house committee have had a conference on the apportion-ment bill. They have most favored a membership of the house at 345 or 354. The ratio at 345 would be 179,440; the ratio at 354 would be 179,440; the ratio at 354 would be 174,884. The ratio at the plan recommended by Springer, of present membership, would be 186,473. It is to be noticed that under the Springer Demogratic plan, the southern states would not get as many members. states would not get as many members as they would under the ratio of 174,884 using a little Pearl stove. in—Whitelaw, in place of Walker, of Missouri: Hayes, the successor of Conger, of Iowa, and Pindar, who has been elected to the vacancy occasioned by the death of Miller, of New York, Mr. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, will also have to be resworn.

The congress has much important business before it, a very small proportion of which will likely be disposed of before its expiration at noon on the 4th of March. There are the necessary appropriation bills, without which the business of the government would be suspended, at least in part, and the reapportionment bill which has as yet received consideration in neither house, but which the Republicans in both houses have said must be passed at this cession.

Then there are many necesures of importance on the calendars which have passed one house and are therefore half through the legislative journey. The most important of these is the Federal election bill which passed the house at the first session, and which was resisted in the senate by the Democrats so firmly that it was necessary for the Republicans to agree to a postponement of its least at the first seasion, and which was resisted in the senate by the Democrats so firmly that it was necessary for the Republicans to agree to a postponement of its least at the first seasion, and which was resisted in the senate by the Democrats so firmly that it was necessary for the Republicans to agree to a postponement of its least at the first seasion, and which was resisted in the senate by the Democrats so firmly that it was necessary for the Republicans to agree to a postponement of its least at the first seasion, and which was resisted in the senate by the Democrats so firmly that it was necessary for the Republicans to agree to a postponement of its least at the first season, and which was resisted in the senate by the Democrats so firmly the passed the passed the passed the passed the passed the passed to a constant of the passed the passed to a constant of the passed the passed to a constant of the passed the passed to a c
